"We're excited to continue to expand our efforts in the federal space," said John F. Lyons, President and CEO of NACR. "With the addition of Brian to our team, we anticipate being even more effective at leveraging all of the NACR and ConvergeOne resources in the delivery of communications and data technology for our federal government customers."

NACR is a leading global integrator of best-in-class communications solutions and services, and a trusted advisor to more than 5,500 customers ranging from small businesses to FORTUNE® 100 and global enterprises. The company works closely with other technology innovators to integrate the latest hardware, software, applications, and services into end-to-end multivendor solutions for diverse markets, including education and healthcare as well as local, state, and federal governments.

Formerly vice president of federal sales for Carousel Industries of North America, Kiel has many years of experience leading and managing within the United States government market, including the defense, civilian, and intelligence sectors of the federal government. He will be headquartered in Michigan and support government customers globally.

"We are excited to have Brian join the ConvergeOne family," according to Dennis Clevenger, Western Region Vice President of NACR. "His extensive experience and expertise will be directed toward expanding our federal practice sales and operations worldwide."

ConvergeOne is one of the leading integrators of best-in-class communications and data solutions — delivering exceptional value and guiding businesses as they evolve from standalone systems to fully integrated networks. Through the acquisition of some of the premier providers of technology and consulting services in the U.S., ConvergeOne offers one source for an end-to-end integrated solution.

"I'm delighted to join such a talented team of professionals and look forward to growing NACR and ConvergeOne's business with all agencies of the federal government," added Kiel.
